

Designing and implementing longitudinal and panel surveys

June 26-27, 2025
online training

Agenda

Jun. 26

10:00 The design and implementation of a longitudinal survey research and a panel study - Methodological and theoretical aspects

Prof. Felice Addeo (Full Professor, Department of Political and Communication Sciences, University of Salerno)

13:00 lunch break

14:00 Results elaboration, data curacy and ethical issues in a longitudinal survey research and a panel study

Dott. Loredana Cerbara (CNR-IRPPS and FOSSR WP4 coordinator)

Giulia Ciancimino (PhD candidate Uni. Roma 3 - CNR-IRPPS)

17:00 end of day 1

Jun. 27

10:00 Case histories: the Italian Online Probability Panel (IOPP), the European Social Survey (ESS), the Gender and Generation survey (GGS), the Growing Up in Digital Europe survey (GUIDE)

Michele Santurro (CNR-IRPPS)

Matilde Perrotti and Elena Marseglia (Bocconi University)

Francesco Piacentini (Milano Statale University)

Emilio Colella and Giovanni Righetto (University of Bologna)

14:00 end of the training

Course description

Longitudinal and panel data are essential for studying and tracking changes at both the individual and societal level, and they are widely applied across various disciplines in the social sciences, including sociology, psychology, economics, and health.

Gathering this type of data presents particular challenges that do not arise in cross-sectional studies.

The course will cover both methodological aspects and practical issues related to their implementation and management.

Training objectives

This course is designed to offer both methodological and practical insights on longitudinal and panel surveys, presenting an overview of the elements of survey design, execution, and analysis that are specific to or uniquely characterized by the longitudinal framework, including the presentation of case histories related to three different surveys will be presented which currently are in their filed phase: the Italian Online Probability Panel, the European Social Survey (ESS), the Gender and Generation Survey, the GUIDE survey.

Audience

Students, researchers and practitioners aimed at learning how to enhance their knowledge about the specific challenges and opportunities offered by longitudinal and panel surveys.

How to apply

Registrations should be submitted through the form at:
<https://l.cnr.it/online-training-jun25> within June 25, 2025

All info: www.fossr.eu/eventi/fossr-online-training-jun25/
Contact person for info: claudia.pennacchiotti@cnr.it

Organisational details

The course will be held online; the link will be provided to participants in due time before the beginning of the course.

Lessons will be held in Italian. Teaching materials, thematic literature and notes on the topics covered will be available to all participants in English.

The training is organised by CNR-IRPPS in the frame of the FOSSR project.
Local scientific/organising committee: Claudia Pennacchiotti, Loredana Cerbara (CNR-IRPPS).